

Elizabeth (Beth) Woods Personal Profile:

Personal Statement

I would like to serve Region IV as an At-Large Board Member to help the organization promote the profession and support the Region's activities and initiatives. Like many in research administration, I fell into this career and have never looked back. I have over 20 years of experience and am currently the Director of Administrative Operations in the Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences in the Retzky College of Pharmacy at the University of Illinois Chicago (UIC). Over the last several years, I have had the immense pleasure of being involved with NCURA and specifically volunteering for several roles with Region IV, which has given me so many opportunities to meet new people, create a wider colleague network and most importantly give back to the profession. What excites me most about this organization is that by providing many opportunities for development, we get to see new professionals join our ranks, grow and become leaders in this field. Our research administrator community is a very diverse one consisting of people from all walks of life who support, teach, collaborate, and even commiserate about the work we do to advance research and this profession. I am hopeful that I can continue to serve and contribute to Region IV's missions to expand our member diversity, provide equal access to education and professional development opportunities, and to grow our respected community. I reside in the far-western suburbs of Chicago with my husband and three children and enjoy spending time with family and friends, watching softball and basketball, reading, and going for walks with my dog, Joy, who is really good about wearing all the cute little coats I buy for her.
